JOINT DECLARATION

Eurogas, the European Union of the Natural Gas Industry and Marcogaz, the Technical Association of the European Natural Gas Industry, jointly agree that natural gas as the most environmentally friendly fossil fuel can make a significant contribution to EU's Green Agenda by helping to reach the Kyoto targets.

The European Natural Gas Industry has reached a very good safety record and excellent environmental footprint, which has been achieved especially by the use of safe and efficient gas appliances, designed and constructed in accordance with technical standards developed over the years. In this way our industry makes a major contribution to a sustainable energy market in Europe.
