JOINT DECLARATION

Eurogas, the European Union of the natural gas industry, and NGVA Europe, jointly agree that natural gas, as the most environmentally friendly fossil fuel, can make a major contribution to a sustainable energy market. By helping to reach the Kyoto targets, natural gas can also make a significant contribution to EU's Green Agenda.

There are also excellent opportunities to progressively substitute part of the natural gas supplies with biomethane produced from domestic organic waste, and from other renewable sources. Several EU member states have already set ambitious targets for future biomethane shares.

A new generation of natural gas powered vehicles will now also support faster NGV market development.
